NOTICE

Risk of R&S ZZK-Case damage

The R&S ZZK-Case is intended for personal carry on of the specified instruments only.

Shipping the R&S ZZK-Case or carrying devices other than specified can damage the R&S ZZK-Case and the components inside.

Never use the R&S ZZK-Case for shipping. For shipping see the instruments user manual, section "Transporting".

Never use the R&S ZZK-Case for other devices than specified.

NOTICE

Risk of R&S ZZK-Case content damage

Long term storing of instruments inside the R&S ZZK-Case can damage the foam insert. A secure fit for the instrument can no longer be assured and can lead to instrument damage.

Always take out an instrument from the R&S ZZK-Case when not in use for transportation.

2 How to Insert the Instrument

2.1 Preparing the R&S ZZK-Case

To prepare the R&S ZZK-Case, follow these steps:

1. Push down the pull-out handle (1) until it is flush with the outer shell (3).
2. Lay the R&S ZZK-Case flat with the butterfly catches (9) facing towards you.
3. Remove the lock from the security hasp (8) if needed.
4. Unlock the R&S ZZK-Case by turning each butterfly catch (9) until they spring open.
5. CAUTION! Heavy object. If the lid is not properly opened, it can fall down and cause injuries.

Open the lid (5) until the lid rests on the sidestraps (7).

6. Take out the additional foam spacer (6).

The R&S ZZK-Case is prepared for inserting an instrument.

2.2 Inserting the Instrument

To insert the instrument into the R&S ZZK-Case:

1. CAUTION! Heavy object. The instrument can be heavy, e.g., if fully equipped. If weight exceeds 18 kg, carry the instrument with two people.

Use the carrying handles at the side for lifting and carrying the instrument.

Lower the instrument carefully into the R&S ZZK-Case, so the instrument and the engraving in the foam insert (10) align.

The instrument must be right side up and the front must face right.

2. For instruments with a height of 2 HU: Insert the additional foam spacer (6) on top of instrument.

3. For instruments with a height of 3 HU: Store the additional foam spacer (6) in a safe place for later use.

The instrument is ready for transportation.

2.3 Closing the R&S ZZK-Case

To close the R&S ZZK-Case:

1. Close the lid (5).
2. Close the butterfly catch (9) by turning for a full revolution.
3. If needed, secure the transport case by locking the security hasp (8) with a lock.

3 Preparing the R&S ZZK-Case for Transportation

Before transporting, make sure the R&S ZZK-Case is properly closed. See Chapter 2.3, "Closing the R&S ZZK-Case", on page 7

1. CAUTION! Heavy object. The loaded Transport Case can be heavy. If weight exceeds 18 kg, carry the Transport Case with two people.
Place the Transport Case in an upright position with the rolling wheels (11) on the ground.
2. Adjust the pull-out handle (1) to desired length.
The R&S ZZK-Case is ready for transportation.

4 Taking Out the Instrument

To remove the instrument out of the R&S ZZK-Case:

- ▶ CAUTION! Heavy object. The instrument can be heavy, e.g., if fully equipped. If weight exceeds 18 kg, carry the instrument with two people.
Use the carrying handles at the side for lifting and carrying the instrument.
Lift the instrument carefully out of the R&S ZZK-Case.
